Dear Liz,

Compensation for WASPI women

I write to share with you the concerns raised with me by many dozens of my constituents, regarding the government's unfair and unjustifiable decision not to pay pension compensation to women who were born in the 1950s and 1960s.

The UK Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman made a landmark decision calling for the government to compensate WASPI women affected by changes to the state pension age, but the government's decision goes against this recommendation. There is no time to wait and many WASPI women have already died before they received justice.

On behalf of my constituents, I urge you to reverse this decision and address this injustice.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours Sincerely,
